

A fast-paced, suspense novel

Written to entertain, challenge, and impact the reader

In Mr. Inside, author Frank James presents an opening scenario that challenges the reader to question the fairness and goodness of God. He fearlessly uses the fictional vehicle to bring us face-to-face with our feelings about personal tragedy of great magnitude. Similar to Job's situation in the Bible, Frank quickly disarms his readers of all neat, pat, cliché answers, and goes on to help us in empathizing with the characters' anger and confusion regarding God and his sovereignty in the face of immense injustice.

A page-turner, Mr. Inside entertains, engages, and impacts the reader in unexpected ways.

DESCRIPTION

"Mr. Inside" is a metaphor, pointing to that bitter place in our hearts where we live in fear and anger, holding the sovereign God responsible for life's unjust events. Mr. Inside is a fictional, fast-paced suspense documentary of how one man, through circumstances beyond his control, comes face-to-face with his interior enemy.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY LINE

In 1947, brothers Gustov and Andy Miller witness the traumatic event of their missionary/pastor parents being brutally slaughtered by a Kenyan witchdoctor. The young boys return to America, drift apart, and each enters adulthood carrying the memories and scars of that fateful event.

By the early 1970s Dr. Gustov Miller, now an internationally renown scholar of Archaeology, Anthropology, and History, has developed a keen sense of solving ancient mysteries and has established his own company called Lost & Found International. He runs his company with only two employees, his assistant, a lovely Christian woman, Miss Beatrix Peeters and James Morrison, his "Mr. Outside," who finds himself in life-threatening situations while searching for lost or stolen artifacts, under the remote direction of Dr. Miller.

The action-packed story-line includes Gus and Jim being hounded by scoundrels, beaten, and thrown off a moving passenger train—all while risking death in their quest to solve the mystery of their lives.

"Frank James is one of the most creative and engaging writers I have ever met."
